

Brian Roth, M.D.

BIO

Brian Roth, MD is a native Detroit. His undergraduate degree is from Michigan State University. After graduating medical school from Wayne State University, Dr. Roth completed a four year Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation (PM&R) Residency at Sinai Hospital in Detroit. During his final year he was named Chief Resident.

Upon completion of his training, Dr. Roth has focused and applied his skills to both the outpatient care of the musculoskeletal system and the inpatient care of individuals with life altering conditions such as strokes and spinal cord injuries.

As an active and enthusiastic sportsman himself, Dr. Roth can empathetically identify with patients suffering from sports related injuries.

Dr. Roth has been the Medical Director of the Rehabilitation Centre at Ascension Providence Rochester Hospital since 1995. He is an Assistant Professor in PM&R at Wayne State University School of Medicine and actively teaches students and residents.
